3. PROFILE OF SKILLS AND COMPETENCES

The most important duties of a Supervisor land, water and environment are:

The term land, water and environment covers all activities and the appropriate provisions related to the development and management of rural and urban areas, including infrastructure. The sector consists of medium-sized and larger enterprises as well as departments within governmental and semi-governmental organizations. The Supervisor land, water and environment carries out inspections of roads and waterways and takes the required measures in the event of calamities. He monitors the execution of work under his own management and/or outsourced work. He consults with other government institutions, groups and individual interested parties concerning execution of the work. He also gives guidance to other employees. The Supervisor is responsible for his own work and for employees working under him. There are few routine tasks. Considerable flexibility is expected of staff. Dealings with clients, principals and users of roads and waterways are also subject to high requirements. The work mainly involves very varied tasks in the area of leadership, guidance, administration (reporting), inspection, supervision, work preparation (road safety) and planning. Anticipation and decision-making in a wide variety of (traffic) situations that may arise are core characteristics of the work of a Supervisor.
